Evelyn, how about an orange juice." She looked at him. He nodded. "Make it two." Crawford shrugged, uneasy at the question. He didn't know if it was the right time to even postulate. "He must have been talking about the Detweiler boy," she said, frowning. "Harry's been kinda. At midnight I was still awake, sitting in number five in my jockey shorts with the light out and the door open. I listened to the ticking of the Detweiler boy's typewriter and the muffled roar of Los Angeles. And thought and thought and thought. And got nowhere. "Well," said Amos, "if you help get us to the top of the mountain, we will let you look into the fragment of the mirror." Then he added, "which is more than your friend the wizard did, apparently." Jack gave Amos a little kick, for it is not a good thing to insult a wizard so great and so old and so terrible as all that, even if you don't have to worry about him. writer at all.
